About PQ

The Prague Quadrennial of Performance Design and Space is:

- / a stage for current trends in contemporary performance design and theatre architecture
- / a live exhibition of the best design for performance from over 70 countries and regions
- / a platform for emerging and established performance creators
- / an educational forum for talks, workshops and masterclasses
- / an incubator for innovative, technology-based visions, approaches, and experiences
- / a family-friendly festival of performance and theatre architecture

The Prague Quadrennial was recognized after the 2015 edition by the EFFE Awards as one of the most trend-setting European festivals.

PQ is organized by Ministry of Culture Czech Republic and realized by ATI.

Development

- / established in 1967, and inspired by Sao Paulo Biennale where Czech representation won gold medal 4 years in a row
- / started as Scenographic and Theatre Architecture Exhibition
- / a bridge connecting East and West even under communist censorship in 1970s-80s
- / has become the largest international festival of performance design and space
- / today acts as a global catalyst of creative progress
by encouraging experimentation, networking, innovation, and future collaborations
- / more info in online publication Transformation of PQ 1999-2015
- / short history of PQ in on-line book 50 years of Prague Quadrennial
